Dear Customers:

As the Coronavirus outbreak continues to spread across China and other continents, AirBorn continues to monitor the news and research as a clearer picture of how the pathogen behaves and the key factors that will determine whether it can be contained. While this is a serious health risk, AirBorn continues to closely monitor all seasonal flu and the impact to our facilities.

In preparation for any illness or pandemic, AirBorn's Business Continuity Plan addresses procedures for recovery at a corporate or individual site occurrence. AirBorn does not have any facilities in China where the outbreak has occurred. Our supply chain organization continues to monitor any risk with product that may originate from China or other infected areas. At this time there is no known impact of our supply chain or manufacturing.

AirBorn will continue to monitor the Coronavirus and all season flu illness to limit any disruption of supply.

Sincerely

Michael A. Cole

President and COO
